certificates that do not belong to them (still fraud)

have lost certificates so that they can have access to multiple certificates they can use as they wish.

Common certificate fraud in Lesotho is designing certificates which have copyable figures as that of the real certificate

o situation prior to 2014

ons Council of Lesotho (ECoL) had long time institutionalized n processes for local tertiary admissions and for prospective employers.

ECoL engaged in a massive verification of both existing students and e applicants from numerous tertiary institutions in Lesotho to establish y of qualification used for admission.

ted to do this audit because it seemed some institutions of higher oth in Lesotho and South Africa, where some of Lesotho learners pursue es were no longer verifying certificates.
