

Payment per qualification submitted for evaluation

SAQA charges for the evaluation of foreign qualifications as follows:

The first (or only one) qualification: R1700
Every subsequent qualification: R850

Applicants are advised to consider carefully what they pay for as separate qualifications, as this may increase the payable amount unnecessarily.

The following examples serve to clarify when to enter one qualification for evaluation:

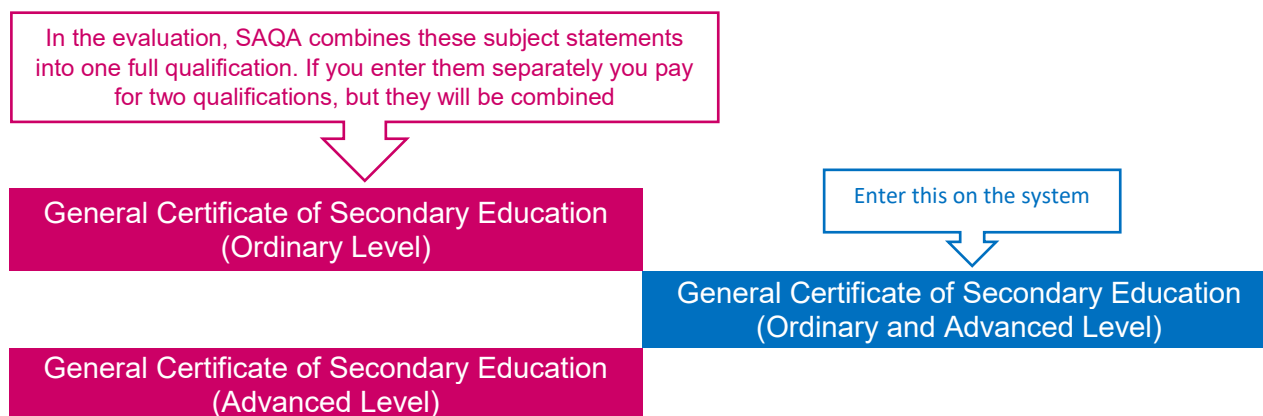

Example 1:

When you have a final school leaving qualification, do not enter the preceding (mid-way) school qualification on the system as well, even if you include the documents in your application. If you add this as a qualification to be evaluated, the system will read it as a qualification in its own right and automatically calculate the payment due for it.

Example 2:

When school leaving qualifications consist of several subject statements, for example the General Certificate of Secondary Education Ordinary Level and Advanced Level subjects, these must be entered into the "Qualifications to be evaluated" section as one qualification so that only the fee for one qualification is charged.

Example 3:

Where a Postgraduate Diploma forms the first part of a Master's Degree (as in the British system) and you have achieved the Master's Degree, it incorporates the Postgraduate Diploma. The two are not separate qualifications, even if you submit the documentation for both.
